ASK RACHEL

Our health director answers your top questions

Q I can't afford a trainer or fancy classes, but I hate working out on my own. Any suggestions?

A Pick up The Fitness Challenge (fitnesschallenge.com, $30). It's an eight-week exercise program for all fitness levels, packaged in the form of a game that you play with a friend. The two of you challenge each other to complete the program — scorecard and awards coupons included — and the friendly competition offers built-in motivation and a support system. Bonus: One dollar from the sale of every game goes to The Fitness Challenge Foundation, a nonprofit group that supports wellness, medical research, and family and children's issues.
